Steven McGee is a business trial lawyer. He is an "AV" rated attorney by Martindale-Hubbell and was selected for inclusion in the Northern California Super Lawyers list (2006 through present), and a Super Lawyers Top 100 Attorney in Northern California from 2008 through the present.

His practice includes a wide range of commercial and real estate matters, with substantial emphasis on construction issues and business litigation. He has over 40 years of trial experience in state and federal courts, as well as commercial and judicial arbitration proceedings. Steven is an American Arbitration Association arbitrator, serving on its construction industry and commercial arbitration panels.

His clients include business entities, contractors, design professionals, real estate developers, and agribusiness firms.

After completing law school at the University of San Diego in 1976, Steven practiced at Kimble, MacMichael & Upton for 35 years before joining Dowling Aaron in 2011.

Steven has been proud to be invited to be a speaker at a number of Lorman and NBI seminars presented with local judges on trial practice and trial techniques, as well as a featured speaker on topics including construction related remedies and mechanics lien laws.

He supports a number of local charities including the Community Food Bank, Big Brothers Big Sisters, and the National Alliance on Mental Illness.

Mr. McGee is married with five adult children. He enjoys spending time with family, traveling, and is an avid San Francisco Giants fan.
